Application Information & Requirements

All application materials must be submitted electronically to [EHNAcademy@ehnel Paso.org](mailto:EHNAcademy@ehnel Paso.org), with the exception of your recommendation letter. Mailed submissions will not be considered.

- University Affiliation Agreement: There must be a current affiliation agreement between your university and Emergence Health Network in order for you to apply. If your university is not listed within the affiliation list the process must be started by your university (instructions listed within affiliation section).
- Completed Application Form: The application form must be completed in its entirety and submitted via email.
- Resume: Please submit a detailed resume along with your completed application form.
- Recommendation Letter: Applicants to the IBC must submit a letter of recommendation, on university letterhead, from a professor or university administrator who is prepared to sponsor their participation. A sponsor should know the applicant well and should comment on the applicant's character; academic, intellectual, and creative strengths; capacity to work with clients; and promise as a future leader. The sponsor's key role in the program is to provide a candid evaluation of a potential applicant. Recommendation letters must be sealed and mailed to the address listed below.
- Personal Interview: Interviews are required. Qualified applicants will be contacted to schedule interviews once their applications are complete.
- Required Training: All selected interns will need to attend and face to face required trainings and complete online required courses.

Recommendation letters should be mailed to the following address:

Emergence Health Network – Human Resources, EHN Academy
Attention: Art Gloria
Associate Human Resources Director
201 E. Main St. – Suite 600
El Paso, TX 79901
