Veterans One Stop Center at EHN Provides Therapy and Creative Healing Groups to assist El Paso Veterans

Great Visuals: Veterans make leather wallets, belts, etc. as part of therapy

(El Paso, TX February 2019) The Veterans One Stop Center at Emergence Health Network is expanding its services to now include additional therapy and Creative Healing Groups. “Our councilors really care about our veteran community, so we want to go the extra mile for them,” said Kellie Franco, Program Manager of EHN Veterans’ Services. “Take the Creative Healing Therapy for instance, this is like art therapy but in this case the participants work with leather to create wallets or belts. It’s proven very therapeutic.”

The Creative Healing Therapy is offered by a veteran himself, who is also a volunteer with the EHN Military Veteran Peer Network. “Mr. Zamora can obviously relate to veterans, so having that peer connection is really helpful,” added Franco. “Plus, they seem to really enjoy using their creativity.” Licensed professional counselors are also available at the Veterans One Stop Center to assist the El Paso military community and their families.
