Emergence Health Network, together with The Boys & Girls Clubs of El Paso, host an open house for new “Mind Lab”

(El Paso, TX March 2026) Emergence Health Network (EHN) and the Boys & Girls Clubs of El Paso are proud to announce the launch of a new initiative designed to better support youth in the community. The innovative lounge space, known as the EHN Mind Lab, is located inside the Boys & Girls Clubs of El Paso at 801 South Florence Street, near downtown El Paso.

“This dedicated space provides a supportive environment where children and teens can access behavioral health resources and participate in programs that foster confidence, academic achievement, career readiness, and overall well-being,” said Kristi Daugherty, Chief Executive Officer of Emergence Health Network. “We recognize the importance of equipping young people with the tools to better understand and navigate behavioral health challenges. Thanks to federal funding and strong community collaboration, EHN’s mental health professionals are now available at the Boys & Girls Clubs location, to support youth participating in their programs.”

“We are thrilled about this partnership because at the Boys & Girls Clubs of El Paso, we are committed to helping young people reach their full potential,” said Anthony Tomasheski, Chief Executive Officer of the Boys & Girls Clubs of El Paso. “The Mind Lab creates an additional safe space where our members can thrive, academically, socially, and emotionally. This partnership with Emergence Health Network enhances those efforts and creates better access to vital behavioral health services, which we know is important to so many families.”
